International Students at a Crossroads: Their Roles and Experiences in US Higher Education Past, Present, and Future

On Friday, July 24th between 11 am and 2 pm (PST) we will hold a virtual roundtable event via Zoom.

Our event aims to give our students, both international and domestic, a place for supportive and informational conversations on the experiences of international students in the US and what international students have meant, mean, and will mean to our domestic students, faculty, institutions, and the US. Our guest faculty speakers will offer us critical approaches to contextualize and historicize our individual experiences.
